

THE MAGNIFICENCE OF SKIN VITALITY

WRITTEN BY STEVE GARDNER

When passion meets energy and quality is uncompromised, we begin to understand Eleanor Welsh's splendid Skin Vitality.

Two new Skin Vitality locations were, getting the store count at a whopping seven.

"Approximately 30 percent of Skin Vitality's business comes from referrals. Our patients love to share their success stories of how we have improved their appearance and attitude. We feel blessed to have them recommend us to their friends and family," says Welsh.

Successfully running a business that continues to grow financially even in these trying times is a respectable achievement for this energetic entrepreneur. Welsh understands her clients' desires, especially because she is part of that same demographic. She empathizes with the debilitating reflections customers see in the mirror. She is aware of its confidence-staking ability, and has made it her life's work to provide the clinic that eases the pain.

"I am a woman in my 40s that faces all the aging challenges daily. I am motivated to help these changes, to build the courage to make changes that will make them feel better and live happier lives," explains Welsh. "Life is far too short to simply go through the motions. Skin Vitality gives us help and patients begin the process of evoking their dreams and there is no time like the present."

When she's away from her booming business, Welsh merges with exercise and relaxation for happiness with family. "I love running and hiking and do so three times weekly. I also enjoy spending as much time with my little girl Holly, who is 9 and full of energy and enthusiasm."

The majority of procedures offered at Skin Vitality are non-invasive and soothing, such as the FDA-approved VitalTight — a machine made to increase the body and reduce the look of cellulite and related imperfections. For skin that has lost its youthful fullness and glow, Skin Vitality offers the TotalFacial III that restores elasticity back into your visage.

With a list of procedures and possibilities that should come with a congested social presentation, Skin Vitality has the techniques and abilities to help you "re-shape your life." They say time heals all, but they also say life is short, so enjoy it and look as good as you feel while you're here. ■

Eleanor Welsh is the bright spirit and owner of the Skin Vitality cosmetic medicine and spa empire. Ascending the highest level of cosmetic medicine technology, the most respected non-invasive cosmetic procedures and arguably the best staff of doctors, nurses and beauticians in science, Welsh and her team are motivated to provide the finest customer care and best skin regenerative procedures possible.

"I am passionate about helping women be the best they can be because I understand, first-hand, how aging can become upsetting if you are not taking the proper steps to be your best," says Welsh.

There are numerous single-store cosmetic medicine and spa companies out there, but hardly any five-store organizations that put forward the ultra-luxury experiences that have so quickly been established at Skin Vitality. Welsh plans on opening
